

Workshop

Getting more from your team

The flow on effects of strong leadership set a firm apart with clients and potential new recruits. Getting the most from your teams and delivering high performance means developing effective leaders and work group managers.

Partners and practice group leaders often come up through the ranks without the benefit of training and coaching in modern management best practice. Their understanding of management models is often confined to those they've experienced personally and sometimes these aren't the most effective.

During a 90 minute, 120 minute, or 150 minute workshop our expert facilitators will help your partners and practice group leaders to learn and understand more about:

- leadership and management best practice
- making the call: do or delegate
- setting and communicating priorities
- coaching and mentoring
- managing high performers
- techniques to get young professionals engaged in their work, the firm, and business development
- helping early- and mid-career lawyers take the next steps
- what it takes to lead a team of tigers.

In this highly interactive session, partners work with techniques and tools to draw on in future to increase their leadership effectiveness and get the most from their teams.
